Old Business:

Symposium/Fleece Event Update (Steve) We are doing well in comparison to last year we have 24 attendees registered, 9 vets, and in really good news we have 3 platinum sponsors and 1 gold sponsor. We have 82 spin-off entries. We have 19 fleeces but more fleeces will come in later. We have several vendors coming too.

We are going to have an informal meet and greet Friday night.

Fundraisers Herdsire Auction (2009 judges choice male) Herdsire Raffle (An elite selection of fine males all prices at $500 for drive by breedings) (Barb) One e-mail has gone out about the fundraiser, a second e-mail will go out about herdsire raffle. We had originally planned on 10 males but are not going to limit it to just ten. We hope to get more than that. Then there will be e-mails with both fundraisers (auction and raffle). People will be able to enter the raffle for the driveby breedings up until Sunday morning. The auction for the 2009 judges choice male will end Monday Feb 22nd.

Farm Show and Empire Farm Days Participation (Cindy/Dick)

We had decided to cut these events due to budget constraints. The marketing committee asked us to re-visit this as it could be short sighted to not be visible at the two NY major farm events. We have already missed the deadline for the farm show but still could do Empire farm days. The concern remains does this really benefit the entire membership? We cut this from the budget and can only put it back if we do really well with our fundraisers. We will re-visit this after the symposium. This will remain on the agenda next month.

Rhinebeck Update We discussed having a presence at the NY Sheep and Wool Festival. Sue C will explore having alpacas in the alpaca barn. We also decided to at least try to put in a vending application to sell alpaca products at the NY Sheep and Wool Festival (Rhinebeck). Sue C. will get the material together for this and put in the application. We will know if our application is accepted April 1st.

Newsletter discussion (Barb) the marketing committee discussed taking over the newsletter. They currently felt they did not have person power to take this on. But Barb has found some very enthusiastic volunteers to take this on in the near future.

Website Progress (Barb) Sue Watts and Richard Jonnasen and the marketing committee and are working on revising the website.

Logo is also being re-designed and we will discuss the at the next meeting
